To whom may concern

Is in my disposition and wish to participate in the “ IPCC Special Report on Climate Change and Cities”.

I have worked in natural resources management and protection but also have a background in risk analysis and climate change adaptation, and experienced working with multidisciplinary teams to achieve such goals.

From my experience working in Latin America, I am sure I will provide an important and valuable scope of the problems and challenges, turning them into opportunities and goals to achieve, all these from a ground-based perspective with human and empathy.

I am open to receive critics and retro alimentation and creating a more valuable teamwork environment that helps the success of our work but also strength the links to cooperation between partners.

I appreciate the attention to the present, wishing you success and peace on your labor days duties.
